OTHER REASONS OR FURTHER EXPLANATION:

AO 472 (Rev. 11/16) Order of Detention Pending Trial

The parties acknowledged the Defendant was suffering from an acute mental health crisis at the time of the alleged offense(s). Though not raising competency concerns, the parties could not diagnose his mental condition and there was no indication that the crisis has passed. Moreover, USPTS did not perform a site visit to confirm that the Defendant's family members (and potential third party custodian) did not posess or have access to firearms. This lack of verification is particularly concerning given the unique circumstances of this case and how readily these family members acquired and possessed the Defendant's ammunition on the Defendant's behalf. The Court cannot be confident that these same family members will take appropriate precautionary steps to absolutely prevent the Defendant from accessing firearms, ammunition and/or explosive devices.

Part IV - Directions Regarding Detention

The defendant is remanded to the custody of the Attorney General or to the Attorney General's designated representative for confinement in a corrections facility separate, to the extent practicable, from persons awaiting or serving sentences or being held in custody pending appeal. The defendant must be afforded a reasonable opportunity for private consultation with defense counsel. On order of a court of the United States or on request of an attorney for the Government, the person in charge of the corrections facility must deliver the defendant to a United States Marshal for the purpose of an appearance in connection with a court proceeding.
